Razing of Thompson, Peck houses planned

By DENISE DICK

YOUNGSTOWN
Youngstown State University plans to demolish a historic home and is considering demolition of a second one.

The trustees' finance and facilities committee at a meeting Thursday voted to demolish the Thompson/Sacherman House.

Gene Grilli, vice president of finance and administration, told committee members that his office, with concurrence from the office of the provost, recommends demolishing both the Thompson/Sacherman House and the Peck House.

With difficult economics and the deteriorated state of both buildings, it's in the university's best interests to demolish them, he said.

Trustee Harry Meshel said he'd like the board to wait and decide later on the Peck House.

"It's on Wick Avenue, and it's a [Charles H.] Owsley House," he said, referring to the Youngstown architect who designed it.

People have approached him with their hopes that the house can be saved, Meshel said.

Thompson/Sacherman is a 2,300-square-foot, single-family home on Lincoln Avenue. It was built in 1882

Youngstown nonprofit organization helps answer couple's prayers

MISSION of LOVE

By KRISTINE GILL

FELIX RIVERA LAY IN BED AS A PRIEST recited the communion rite in the cramped, makeshift bedroom of his East Side home.

Rivera, 71, has been in bed since a golf-cart accident left him paralyzed in 2005. He cannot walk. He can barely move his arms. His hands are forever balled into weak fists that rest on top of his blankets.

"Sometimes I think I can work," said the former GM employee who retired in 2001. "Late at night, I remember I can do nothing."

On Wednesday, Felix and his wife, Lourdes, 64, received communion amid the buzz of a power saw. A few paces from their bedroom, past piles of bedding and neglected chores, a crew worked to finish an addition to their home.

The Mission of Love, a nonprofit based in Youngstown, raised money to pay for the labor and supplies needed for Felix's new bedroom, which will include a handicapped-accessible shower. Lourdes often fetches water from the basement to bathe her husband in bed.

Her caregiver responsibilities fell to one of her daughters recently when Lourdes spent two weeks in the hospital after a heart attack. She points to the scar along the right side of her neck where doctors cleared a blocked artery.

"Welcome to the house of the cripples," Lourdes said, laughing as a family friend, Phil Gonzalez, translated.

The Riveras originally are from Puerto Rico, and Gonzalez met them 30 years ago through their church, St. Rosa de Lima on Tenney Avenue in Campbell. Gonzalez asked Kathy Price, founder and director of Mission of Love, for a vehicle to help transport Felix to doctor's appointments.

But after meeting with the Riveras and presenting them with a free van, Price knew her work wasn't done.

"I looked around and said, 'We need to do something,'" Price said.

A Cleveland company donated the wheelchair ramp that leads from the Riveras' front door, and Price raised funds through the mission to pay for the addition to the home.

"I feel happy," Felix said. "I have to wait and see when I move in there. It's like living another life."
